DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Whitman (US patent no. 2,446,448). Whitman '448 discloses an insole comprising an insole material (rubber layer 11); a first elastomeric pad (resilient material such as sponge rubber 14 and 16) attached to the insole material and positioned to contact a metatarsus section of a foot; and a second elastomeric pad (non-resilient material such as hard rubber 15) attached to the insole material and positioned to contact a heel portion of a foot; the first and second pads being horizontally distinct from one another; and the first and second pads each having a rebound property, the rebound of the first pad differing from the rebound rate of the second pad.

The rebound property of an article may be tuned to meet the needs of a particular user and/or a particular activity.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 1-3, 6-9, 11, 15-29 and 32-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hardt (Pub. No. US 2002/0092203) in view of Whitman '488. Hardt discloses an insole comprising an insole material (polymeric foam sheet material 22 with a hardness from about 40 to about 65 on "00" shore Hardness scale); a first elastomeric pad (polyurethane elastomeric gel plug 26 with a shore "00" hardness in the range of from about 20 to about 60) attached to the insole material and positioned to contact a metatarsus section of a foot; and a second elastomeric pad (polyurethane elastomeric gel plug 24 with a shore "00" hardness in the range of from about 20 to about 60) attached to the insole material and positioned to contact a heel portion of a foot; the first and second pads being horizontally distinct from one another. Hardt discloses that the insole and the first and second pads having a rebound property, the rebound of the first and second pad differing from the rebound of the insole. However, Hardt does not appear to disclose the rebound of the first pad differing from the rebound of the second pad. Whitman '488 discloses an insole with first and second pad where the rebound of the first pad differing from the rebound rate of the second pad to prevent excessive rotation of the foot toward the outer border. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to Make the rebound of the first pad different from the rebound of the second pad to prevent excessive rotation of the foot towards the outer border.

The rebound of an article may be tuned to meet the needs of a particular user and/or a particular activity.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3, 6-9, 11, 15-29 and 32-41 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
